Chapter 1 first hunt

Once upon a time there lived a young wolf who loved to read books since she discovered them last year. One day she was walking around in the forest trying to go hunting for her first time ever. She was happy that her dad finally was letting her hunt by herself so she wanted to prove she could do it on her own.

So she did what her mom had told her to. She remembered when she was little and her mom would teach her about the fun and danger and how to hunt properly, “man those were the days.” Her mom told her to travel down wind and crouch close to the floor when you smell something.

Right then she smelt a mouse so she bent down and ran towards a mouse but then...

Chapter 2 The Fall

She slid down a cliff because of mud she had stepped in before. Right then she grabbed on to a root growing out of a stone on the cliff. But then it started to rain and she lost her grip and fell into a thorn bush at the bottom. As she was whimpering from pain she saw a weird long thing at the bottom of the cliff.

Chapter 3 The Pen

As she was examining the object an idea sparked into her head. She would find a book and use the pen to write with. She put the pen in her leaf bag and walked home. Sadly she never found the mouse but she had something better she had a new treasure.

Chapter 4 Magic

When she got back her dad made her go to bed. When she was asleep she had a dream about a pen talking to her saying “use me use me, use me.” Suddenly she sparked awake. The pen. She remembered she was going to use the pen.

But there was a problem. She didn’t know what to write about.

Then she remembered what her mom had told her: start out with what you want then turn it into a story.

She started out with drawing a mouse because she never caught the one earlier. Suddenly a mouse came to life right in front of her “yum, that was a yummy snack,” Lilac said.

And then she had an idea. She could use for just more than mice. She could use it to help other wolves and animals. “Yes that will be perfect!”
