

500 words

The Fallen Temple
by Maggie Herrmann
Child Category

Once there lived a girl named Kate who lived with her mom in an apartment. Nothing ever exciting happened. It was just very busy every day.

Once her mom asked her to go get some groceries from the supermarket in town. As she walked over she felt a weird feeling that she never felt before.

She grabbed the stuff she needed and ran back home. But as she got back she saw a glimpse of light. It zipped over behind a trash can. She dashed over and peeked behind it. There stood a baby fox with a bright and shiny coat that was white with a gold outline and beautiful glowing yellow eyes and paws. He looked at her and whined.

“Hi honey.” Mom was doing the dishes. “Who do you have there?”

“I found a dog. I think he was a stray, can we keep him?”

“I guess, but did you get the groceries” my mom said in a unsure voice. She grabbed the fox and darted to her room.

Kate played with the fox a little and decided to give him a name. “Hmm” she thought and then knew what she would name him. She called him Upon because he was like in a fairytale.

When he heard his name, a magical stone appeared. It broke in half and connected to Kate’s necklace and a collar appeared and went on Upon. They got teleported to a magical world where there were dragons, unicorns, pixies and so much more.

They wandered around a little and it felt like Upon had been there before. He was urging Kate to follow him.

They ran through a river and flowers and then got to a cottage. Upon looked a little frightened, and a gust of wind pulled Kate into the cottage. There stood a Witch.

Upon ran in to protect her. The witch stood there and said “what a beautiful fox you have. Did you know he is the only one of his kind?” The witch looked at Kate. “You are a witch and the rarest kind too”. The witch began to make a potion and gave it to her and then disappeared. A label on it said it will give power when you most need it.

The next day she started to practice her magic and aced all of the spells she did. Then Upon ran and grabbed Kate by her jacket and took her to an ancient temple.

They explored it a little and saw the forest around it was corrupted by dark magic. Then they heard a noise. There were huge giants walking towards them.

Kate looked at Upon and he looked back. Together they vanquished them and got rid of the spell.

Then Kate looked at the potion and peeled the label off. It was poison.

She tried a spell on the witch’s cottage that would make it so she could do no harm ever again.

Then they were teleported back home and apparently no time had passed.